CALL FOR ABSTRACTS

THIS SYMPOSIUM IS PART OF THE ACCC IMPACT WEEK 2027

PLANETARY HEALTH & SUSTAINABILITY SYMPOSIUM

20 APRIL, 2027 AT SOFIA CULTURAL CENTRE IN VUOSAARI, HELSINKI, FINLAND

ABOUT

Across Europe and in Finland, the current prioritisation of security of supply and crisis preparedness are leading to massive public expenditure in defence and new material and energy supplies. At the same time, there are signals for a new Nature Law for halting the biodiversity loss by 2030, and increasing interest in nature credits and planetary health initiatives in cities and regions.

However, there remain open questions about how to develop systemic approaches and solutions that support both nature positive, planetary health and crisis preparedness outcomes.

This symposium is free of charge and the aim is to examine the tensions and prospects of foregrounding climate mitigation and adaptation, nature positive and planetary health outcomes in the crisis preparedness agenda. We encourage critical discussion, as well as systemic thinking among researchers and policy makers about the tensions between these agendas in Finland and across Europe, and viable pathways for moving forward.

Theme 1: Building secure societies through climate- and nature-positive transformation.

Theme 2: Healthy people, healthy ecosystems and secure societies.
